En Historias de nunca acabar: antología del nuevo cuento costarricense, antologada por Juan Murillo y Guillermo Barquero, se reúne el trabajo narrativo de quince creadores contemporáneos de Costa Rica nacidos después de 1966, y que pertenecen a dos generaciones. Avezados unos, con menos experiencia otros, la suma de estas quince voluntades y búsquedas resulta en un mosaico de las posibilidades de la palabra escrita que además de adentrarse en los territorios jamás agotados del amor, la traición, el odio y la denuncia social, no rehúye la fantasía, la fuga y el delirio como armas con las que atacar lo anodino de la vida diaria. La nostalgia y el espanto de la huida encuentran cabida en este volumen; la contemporaneidad y lo extemporáneo confluyen sin problemas.
